SCOTT SCHEDULE WORKSHOP 2026

29 July 2026, 8.30pm – 1.00pm (Singapore time, GMT+8)

Pinsent Masons MPillay LLP, 182 Cecil Street, #32-01 Frasers Tower, Singapore 069547

About the Workshop

APIEx is proud to announce this workshop on Scott Schedules.

Learning Objectives

Rather than focusing solely on the conventional use of Scott Schedules by expert witnesses in dispute resolution, this workshop provides contract administrators with a broader and more practical perspective on the tool. The key learning points are as follows:

1. Effective Contract Administration

Scott Schedules serve as an effective method to document differences in the parties' views and regarding their various claims – both during the contract period and the maintenance (defects liability) period. Beyond mere record-keeping, they optimise efficiencies by identifying differences in position between the contractor and contract administrator at an early stage, thereby promoting the efficient resolution of such works and, critically, supporting the avoidance of disputes through early settlement of conflicts.

2. Perspective from Expert Witnesses and Legal Counsel

Beyond contract administration, Scott Schedules serve as an important tool for expert witnesses and legal counsel should matters escalate to legal proceedings. Their perspectives also assist contract administrators to prevent disputes from arising. It also assists contract administrators in making fair and reasonable decisions in executing their roles and duties.

3. SOP Act Adjudications

Scott Schedules are increasingly used by adjudicators in SOP Act adjudications. Presentation in the form of a Scott Schedule assists the adjudicator with well-organised comparisons of the positions of various parties.

4. Arbitration Proceedings

Use of Scott Schedules are also commonplace in arbitration – often consolidating the key tenets of the contract administrator's decision through to expert witness opinion and legal counsel's arguments, in a credible and persuasive format before an arbitrator.

Workshop Format

The workshop is built around activities using a realistic construction scenario that runs from the construction stage through to dispute resolution on the merits. Activity #1 addresses the Scott Schedule from a Contractor and Contract Administrator viewpoint; Activity #2 from an Expert Witness and Lawyer/Counsel viewpoint; Activity #3 from an Adjudicator viewpoint; and Activity #4 from an Arbitrator viewpoint.

Faculty

Technical and expert-witness perspectives will be provided by Ar. Darren Benger. Accredited Construction Law specialist, Lawyer Chan Yong Neng, share perspectives from counsel. Former State Courts Judge, Professor Leslie Chew SC will provide review and feedback from a judge's perspective.

Who Should Attend

This workshop is applicable to all practitioners in construction and construction law, including contractors, consultants, contract administrators, experts, lawyers/counsel, adjudicators and arbitrators. Contract administrators – encompassing architects and engineers as primary administrators and quantity surveyors in a support capacity – will find this workshop directly relevant to their continuing professional development.

Very limited places are available for this Workshop so do register early!
